

Processes and Materials III

■ Packaging is a completed process in its own right

- It needs very special materials - even the lowly black plastic that dominates the appearance of chips is a sophisticated material!
- It also includes extensive testing of the chip.

Illustration

